ABOUT ME

I am a developer with experience on large scale international projects. I can develop web and mobile applications for Android and iOS using React Native from start to production and familiar with Agile development.

I always challenge myself and I am constantly learning new things and improving my development skills. I can apply this knowledge to my work and improve application or website performance. In my opinion clean code and good project structure is very important to avoid misunderstanding from the team and make any projects get more efficient.
