ABOUT ME

I have lived, traveled, and studied in many different countries and cultures across the world. Through the experiences that I gained from this, I learned how to profoundly communicate with- and in different cultures.

I consider myself to be a very organized and hard working person. I avoid conflicts, but do not shy away from discussions. When I encounter challenges I always try to deal with them myself first, but when they prove to be too heavy, I do not hesitate to ask for help. In general, I tackle assignments with great enthusiasm.

I can work well on a project on my own, but am also able to work in teams. If necessary I can act as a leader and lead small project groups.
